Petitioners believe they will be damaged by the ongoing existence of Registration No. 4828981 (the “’981 Registration”) for the mark SKYBLOCK (stylized form) in International Class 009 and, accordingly petition for cancellation of same based on abandonment and non-use of the subject mark in U.S. commerce, fraud on the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office (“USPTO”), and genericness, under 15 U.S.C. § 1064(3); 37 C.F.R. §§ 2.111(b) and 2.112; and TBMP § 307 et seq. and 309 et seq. To the best of Petitioners’ knowledge, the name and address of the current owner of the ‘981 Registration is Respondent Mineverse, LLC (“Mineverse” or “Respondent”), 5600 Bonita Beach Rd., Apt #4808, Bonita Springs, Florida 34134.

Facts Common to All Cancellation Counts

15. On January 9, 2015, Defendant's assignor of record, Huzhou Leifu Information Technology Co., Ltd. ("HLIT"), a Chinese corporation, filed an intent-to-use application under Section 1B of the Trademark Act with the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office ("USPTO") to register a stylized form of the word SKYBLOCK, appearing as follows:

Skyblock

(the "Skyblock Mark"). A copy of the TESS data respecting the Skyblock Mark application is annexed hereto as Exhibit "A."

16. The HLIT Skyblock Mark application specified the following goods in International Class 009:

Computer game programmes downloadable via the Internet; computer game programs; computer game software; computer game software for use on mobile and cellular phones; computer operating software; computer peripheral devices; computers; data processing equipment, namely, couplers; downloadable electronic game programs; video game cartridges.

17. On July 29, 2015, HLIT filed a Statement of Use with the USPTO, specifying a March 2, 2014, first use date in U.S. commerce as to all the goods listed in the Skyblock Mark application. Said March 2, 2014, alleged first use date in U.S. commerce pre-dated the filing date of the HLIT ITU application, wherein HLIT had represented under penalty of perjury that no use in commerce had yet been made of the Skyblock Mark as of the January 9, 2015, filing date.

18. HLIT also filed specimens of use with its Statement of Use in the form of five JPEG images. Those images consisted of screen shots from the Amazon.com apps and games download platform for a downloadable mobile phone game application called “Skyblock – Mini Survival Game With Block Multiplayer.” A copy of the HLIT Statement of Use, inclusive of the specimens of use, is annexed hereto as Exhibit “B.”

19. In reliance upon the Statement of Use submitted by HLIT under penalty of perjury, the USPTO issued the '981 Registration to HLIT on October 6, 2015, for the Skyblock Mark.

20. On August 14, 2020, an assignment of the '981 Registration from HLIT, as assignor, to Respondent Mineverse, as assignee, dated August 13, 2020, was recorded with the USPTO at Reel/Frame 7206/0886 (the “HLIT Assignment”). A copy of the HLIT Assignment is annexed hereto as Exhibit “C.” The HLIT Assignment was a “quitclaim” form of assignment, which was devoid of any representations or warranties by HLIT.

21. Upon information and belief, at some time prior to the execution and recordation of the HLIT Assignment, HLIT ceased selling, offering for sale and distributing its “Skyblock –

Mini Survival Game With Block Multiplayer” mobile phone game in United States commerce, without an intention to resume such use.

22. As of December 28, 2020, Amazon’s app/game download platform listed at least 21 independently developed mobile games created by other third parties that were named or contained the name SKYBLOCK at https://www.amazon.com/s?k=skyblock&i=mobile-apps&ref=nb_sb_noss_1. A screen shot copy of this search results page is annexed hereto as Exhibit “D.” None of the listed games are offered by Respondent.

23. As of December 31, 2020, the Google Play Android app store listed at least 80 independently developed mobile games created by other third parties that were named or contained the name SKYBLOCK at https://play.google.com/store/search?q=skyblock&c=apps&hl=en_US&gl=US. A screen shot copy of this search results page is annexed hereto as Exhibit “E.” None of the listed games are offered by Respondent.

FIRST CLAIM FOR CANCELLATION: ABANDONMENT

24. Petitioners incorporate by reference the allegations set forth above in paragraphs 1 – 23 of this Petition as if fully pleaded at length herein.

25. Upon information and belief, HLIT previously discontinued use of and abandoned the Skyblock Mark with respect to all the goods in the ‘981 Registration, with no intention to resume use, and Respondent is bound by such abandonment as of the date of the HLIT Assignment and to date.

26. Upon information and belief, Respondent has further abandoned the Skyblock Mark, with no intention to resume use, with respect to the goods described in the ‘981 Registration.

27. Upon information and belief, the reason Respondent obtained the HLIT Assignment was for the sole purpose of threatening claims against third parties, including Petitioners, for alleged infringement of the ‘981 Registration, and using such threats to extort settlements, including payments of fees and royalties. Respondent’s actions have been in bad faith.

28. Petitioners therefore are being damaged by the continued registration by Respondent of the Skyblock Mark and the existence of the ‘981 Registration, which should be cancelled.

SECOND CLAIM FOR CANCELLATION: FRAUD ON THE USPTO

29. Petitioners incorporate by reference the allegations set forth above in paragraphs 1 – 28 of this Petition as if fully pleaded at length herein.

30. Defendant’s predecessor assignor, HLIT, knowingly made false, material representations of fact with the intent to deceive the USPTO, thereby obtaining by fraud the ‘981 Registration to which it was otherwise not entitled.

31. Apart from reciting “Computer game programmes downloadable via the Internet; computer game programs; computer game software; computer game software for use on mobile and cellular phones,” the ‘981 Registration also recites “computer operating software; computer peripheral devices; computers; data processing equipment, namely, couplers; downloadable electronic game programs; video game cartridges” as being in use in U.S. commerce as of the SOU filing date.

32. Upon information and belief, neither HLIT nor Respondent have ever offered “computer operating software; computer peripheral devices; computers; data processing equipment, namely, couplers; downloadable electronic game programs; video game cartridges” in U.S. commerce, and such representation in the SOU was intentionally false and misleading.

33. Online research by Petitioners has not revealed any of the foregoing goods offered in the U.S. by HLIT or Respondent. The only specimen of use submitted by HLIT with its Statement of Use was for the single downloadable mobile app game called “Skyblock – Mini Survival Game With Block Multiplayer.” HLIT knew at the time it submitted its Statement of Use that it had never offered in U.S. commerce “computer operating software; computer peripheral devices; computers; data processing equipment, namely, couplers; downloadable electronic game programs; video game cartridges” under the Skyblock Mark. HLIT falsely represented to the USPTO that it in fact was offering such goods in U.S. commerce as of the July 29, 2015, date HLIT filed its Statement of Use.

34. Upon information and belief, at the time it filed its application to register the Skyblock Mark, HLIT did not have a bona fide intent to offer in U.S. commerce “computer operating software; computer peripheral devices; computers; data processing equipment, namely, couplers; downloadable electronic game programs; video game cartridges.”

35. Under penalty of perjury, HLIT represented to the USPTO at the time it filed its Section 1(b) intent-to-use application for the Skyblock Mark that it had not yet begun use of such mark in U.S. commerce. On July 29, 2015, HLIT filed its Statement of Use with the USPTO, specifying a March 2, 2014, first use date in U.S. commerce, which contradicted the sworn representation made by HLIT in its original application that the Skyblock Mark had not yet been used in U.S. commerce. Either HLIT’s representation in its Section 1(b) application that no prior use in U.S. commerce had occurred was knowingly false, or its recitation of an earlier first use date in its Statement of Use was knowingly false. Either way, HLIT’s representations to the USPTO were false and fraudulent and were made with actual knowledge of such falsity.

36. Upon information and belief, at the time it obtained the HLIT Assignment, Respondent knew or should have known that HLIT’s representations in its Statement of Use respecting the ‘981 Registration and all the Class 009 goods were false.

37. Upon information and belief, the USPTO relied upon the false statements made by HLIT in its Statement of Use in issuing the ‘981 Registration.

38. Petitioners therefore are being damaged by the continued registration by Respondent of the Skyblock Mark and the existence of the ‘981 Registration, which should be cancelled.

THIRD CLAIM FOR CANCELLATION: GENERICNESS

39. Petitioners incorporate by reference the allegations set forth above in paragraphs 1 – 38 of this Petition as if fully pleaded at length herein.

40. The name “Skyblock” has become generic for a type of in-game digital world used in one of the world’s most popular online games called Minecraft®, which is currently owned by Microsoft Corporation. In the Minecraft game, players interact, build structures, and engage in a massive online virtual world constructed of block-like components, landscapes, characters and related content. Extensive in-game worlds and content have been created over the course of many years, and continue to be created, for the Minecraft game by thousands of independent developers.

41. One of these Minecraft worlds has become commonly known over the course of approximately nine years as “Skyblock.” The name “Skyblock” has come to refer generically to a category of in-game digital worlds and associated content relating to an island in the sky composed of blocks, thence the name “Skyblock,” where players are challenged with surviving on this block island in the sky with limited resources, within the Minecraft game universe.

42. The first “Skyblock” named game world was released to the public by Respondent’s own principal owner, who is known by the alias “Noobcrew,” on or about September 4, 2011, on an online public Minecraft game forum site called Minecraft Forum. Noobcrew released the “Skyblock” world without any license or other restriction, and without notice of any trademark rights in the “Skyblock” name.

43. Over the course of nearly a decade, hundreds, if not thousands, of independent companies and individual developers have created variations of “Skyblock” worlds and related in-game content, as well as downloadable games, to the point where, within the gaming community, the “Skyblock” name has become generic for a type of Minecraft game world consisting of a block island in the sky and its related digital content.

44. As set forth above, numerous third-party mobile game apps also exist for download in the United States that use the name “Skyblock” or “Sky block.”

45. Noobcrew never sought to enforce any trademark rights against any of the numerous third parties and persons who, over the course of many years since 2011, released their own versions of “Skyblock” worlds and associated content bearing the “Skyblock” name. Nor did HLIT ever attempt to enforce any trademark rights in the Skyblock name. It was only recently in 2020 that Respondent, in an attempt to extort license fees to which it is not entitled, first starting sending out cease and desist letters to various game content developers and service providers, including some of the Petitioners, citing the ‘981 Registration and alleged common law rights as evidenced by a separate pending USPTO application filed by Respondent on November 20, 2019, for “Skyblock” in Class 042 (SN 88699388).¹

46. As a result of Respondent’s predecessor assignor, HLIT, and Respondent’s principal owner, Noobcrew, never having enforced any trademark rights in the Skyblock name over the course of nearly nine years, despite extensive third party uses thereof, the Skyblock name has become generic for a type of computer-generated game world and related content for the Minecraft game, and Respondent’s ‘981 Registration for the Skyblock Mark should be cancelled.

47. Petitioners are being damaged by the continued registration by Respondent of the Skyblock Mark and the existence of the '981 Registration, which should be cancelled.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Petitioners respectfully request that Registration No. 4828981 be cancelled.
